(Photo by Scott Olson/Getty Images) WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee will hold a hearing Tuesday to discuss the reported use of an FBI informant in the Trump campaign, following a report in The New York Times that the FBI put a “paid informant” into Trump’s orbit in 2016. The newspaper reported that the FBI used the informant to collect information on some of the key Trump associates, including Michael Cohen and Carter Page. The report also said the FBI used the informant in its probe of Russia’s interference in the election and Trump’s 2016 campaign. The Justice Department declined to comment to The Times on whether it had ever used a “paid informant.” The hearing will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Capitol. The focus of the hearing is on whether the FBI used the informant in an effort to spy on Trump’s campaign, rather than to monitor other matters. Judiciary Committee Chairman Bob Goodlatte has been pressing the FBI for more details on how its probe of Trump associates was conducted. A source told Fox News that members of the House Intelligence Committee were also briefed about the informant in August. The Times reported that, according to multiple sources, the FBI had a “veritable arsenal” of information it could use in its investigation of Russia’s meddling in the 2016 election, and that the informant had gathered information on some of the Trump associates before they became an issue. However, the informant has not been reported to have done anything since the election. “I was just put out there to watch the campaign,” the informant told The Times. “And then, when he became the nominee, I was then asked to basically report back to the Company [FBI] on a regular basis what Trump was doing and thinking.” The Times also reported that the informant was “paid” and “operationalized” by the FBI, using a pseudonym. It said he or she was in contact with multiple members of the Trump campaign. Cohen has told reporters that he was in touch with a “guy” who he said was an “Israeli guy” who was “talking about that” — that is, the Times said, the Israeli government’s contacts with the Trump campaign. Cohen did not respond to a request for comment Monday from the Times. According to the Times, Cohen was also in touch with other “individuals who were connected to the incoming administration.◆
