Features Key:

Game requires minimal skills to operate; simple, well lit of track, placing pieces in a simple pattern, with plenty of color contrast, is all you need. Play as little as once a day and the enjoyment will last. Decisions on the placement of the obstacles and the players path are just a few key taps away as a track itself is usually designed to be guiding everyone's choice of direction. Find the path to reach the goal as everyone around you struggles to find their own, while besting others in the plot and becoming the ultimate champion. System overcomes difficulty by auto placing obstacles and yet making it easy for the player to choose the appropriate path for their goal, the path is also designed to keep the constantly climbing insurmountable obstacles from blocking the goal, should the players continue to be unsuccessful. Highly involved multi-player features including world wide leader boards, weekly challenges, and an online tournament with over $10,000 in prizes. Possibly the best-looking game on the market. Menu with no ads, no banners, the only thing on the right side of the game screen is your score. Economy changes as opportunities arise in the game to please the players, or if you are stuck with no opportunity to begin with. Can be used on all devices, even the best of the best, leading to many people around the world seeing the game, creating an awareness of what we at Unrivaled are trying to do, and creating excitement for more games to come. The game is cross platform, from iPad to Apple TV, as well as Wifi and On-Wifi models, and even smart TVs.

Fist Fantasy Performer Vulnerability Explanation In my recent 'Vulnerability Explanations' series I have started to analyse targetable cards/mechanics from the Fist of Rukon set, and because of the amount of explanations I have prepared, I have started to re-post my old transcriptions due to space constraints and to ensure consistency. Those who are interested can click on the series link next to the title and it will take you to all the old Vulnerability Expressions. Please note that I only list cards that are faction specific: there aren't any factions-unspecific options from this set, because part of the purpose of this series of explanations is for people to understand, right now, the new universe for people unfamiliar with the universe. For those of you who read and commented in the Vulnerability Explanations thread, I would love to meet you in other areas of the forums so as to better develop this teaching part of Magic: the Gathering and to learn more about my readers. Please join me on Slack to chat, or contact me via my email address below. This is my first post - but not my first time putting out a translation. I want to thank Mapper205, KnightB for their amazing hard work in not only getting me these cards, but making them readable as well, hand-stitching at night, although sometimes I still insist that it is more of a morning job. I won't comment much on the card and only break down some of their aspects, because I only do the Fist of Rukon set as it is my first release as a full-time caster and I do not want to over-expand myself. Feel free to comment, ask questions (especially if you don't understand anything), and thank you in advance! If you enjoyed this series, check out previous Vulnerability Expressions, or join my discord to chat with the best Mapper around: Disclaimer: These new mechanics are still pending retcons (But I am very happy with them even if they are still pending retcons), so expect more explanation to come on how they'll work. If you want to read more about these retcons check out, 'The Ravings of Nicol Bolas' and 'The Mispaintures of the Lich Lord', and 'Nicol Bolas: On the
