Work is under way to erect a new textile mill and expand existing facilities at the Synergy Group's yet-to-be-named project on the shores of the Ottawa River. Work at the project site south of Highway 417 is expected to continue until September 2019. Synergy Group is planning to invest $30 million in a new 600,000 square foot textile manufacturing facility. The company, based in the city's west end, currently operates a 90,000 square foot plant at 475 Laurier St. E., and a 30,000 square foot plant next door at 519 Laurier St. E. Synergy Group's CEO Chris Jones said the expansion will provide the company with the capacity to accommodate new high-end commercial and private labels such as Alberta-made Supreme NHL-brand jerseys. The new $15 million mill will operate with a new spinning line that will spin microfibre yarn (which is thinner and more durable than the old coarse cotton yarn) used for clothing, coats and home furnishings, as well as textiles for high-end furniture. Jones said the company is also looking to gain substantial water rights for the project and may be able to construct an underground storage tank to minimise the risks of water contamination at the site. If Synergy Group secures the rights, the project will be a local boost for a project that will bring 650 new jobs and more than $100 million to the region, Jones said. Once completed, the project will allow the company to start producing specialty fabrics for the medical and defence industries, including high-end hospital gowns. "We're taking a pro-active approach. We're investing and upgrading to create a world-class facility with a long-lasting legacy in this region," Jones said. The new mill is expected to start operations in early 2020. "We're very excited about what this will mean for the future of the company," Jones added. Sy c9d1549cdd
