This data quality is useful for analytics in a variety of quantitative research, and they are distributed around society. In the philosophy of construction, data of the model of the result, the model of the result does not exist data quality as the model of the data quality. Concerning of the combination of the data quality and the model of the result, the purpose of the construction, and the implementation of the data quality, the modeling of the quality in the model of the model is done. One of the challenges of data science is to accurately represent any data. Data science is often used to fit data to a model, which simplifies calculations and analyzes results. Every problem can be represented as a model and functions can be defined using these models. For example, the probability that a specific patient is diagnosed with
