EZR3 or ezrpdsl, which is some type of version number for the game. 74. I am a land surveyor! I'm a land surveyor in a whole new world, but the problem is I am a novice. I need to buy a home. I am interested in doing the survey myself, but there are a few factors that make this a little difficult. These factors include: the secluded remote location of the property, not enough money to fly in a professional, the property is so big that it would take more than a week to do, there is so much work to be done that a pro must be called in, and my boss doesn't want to spend the money on a professional because he says I can do it just as well. I told him I could build a house for just $200.00, but he says I can't do anything that good. Does this seem like a big story? I am a proud, independent, full time employee. My previous work was for the US government. I want to move to another city. I am thinking of returning to school to learn surveying. Does anyone know where I can get a job doing this? I have called a few schools in my area and they all told me I would have to pay $50,000 to $100,000 just to get certified to be a land surveyor. There are only 1,500 job openings for a land surveyor nationwide according to the association of land surveyors. Does anyone know of a school that will train me on the job? I have found one that I am interested in taking, but I can't afford to leave my job or quit my job. I don't have much money. I don't have enough to take out a $200,000 loan. There is no way to keep this a secret either. Everyone knows I can build a house and everything that is needed to be built for $200. My boss is already starting to wonder why I only work part time. I believe it is the grass. There is no yard for him to mow. It is so difficult to keep it looking good. This job requires grass be left alone. He has no time to mow. I should get more money to pay for a professional to come out and mow it every week. I have had no luck looking for a job. I have looked on craigslist and even monster.com for work.
