Roblox is an online game platform and game creation system developed by Roblox Corporation that allows users to program games and play games created by other users. Created by David Baszucki and Erik Cassel in 2004 and released in 2006, the platform hosts user-created games of multiple genres coded in the programming language Lua. For most of Roblox's history, it was relatively small, both as a platform and a company. Roblox began to grow rapidly in the second half of the 2010s, and this growth has been accelerated by the COVID-19 pandemic. Roblox is free to play, with in-game purchases available through a virtual currency called Robux. As of August 2020, Roblox had over 164 million monthly active users, including more than half of all American children under 16. Although Roblox has received generally positive reviews from critics, it has faced criticism for its moderation, microtransactions, and exploitative practices directed toward children. It is in the form of a digital currency in which the player earns and buys items from other players. The currency's value is displayed in in-game currency, which is in a real-world value and not regulated by any government. Fortnite's Robux are known as V-Bucks and are occasionally referred to as Robux or Vbucks. The currency can be earned as players play and defeat the Fortnite's gladiators and enemies. There are two ways to earn Robux: through the Battle Pass and as a result of victories. The Battle Pass allows players to unlock additional content in the game. Achievements include the personal class Rank, which earns players experience, rank points, and of course players can buy in-game content with the earned points. One of the greatest miracles of modern technology is that, despite the billions of dollars that are pumped into advertising

He was taken to hospital on Friday afternoon after complaining of an illness. A Downing Street spokesman said the Conservative leadership hopeful was "satisfactorily treated" at Guy's Hospital on Friday and no longer required "immediate treatment" at hospital. His condition is not thought to be lifethreatening. Mr Johnson, 59, has remained in self-isolation at his constituency home in Chequers in Buckinghamshire. "Early last night he was discharged from hospital and returned home," the spokesman said. "Today, he was treated as an outpatient for a chest infection at a London hospital. "He is being closely monitored and is now at home, resting and recovering. The Conservative Party is happy for him to carry on as its leader." Mr Johnson had been admitted to hospital after feeling unwell, but later began to cough, leading to the PM's doctor, who is an eminent cardiologist, taking him off the ward. Mr Johnson was meant to be in the chair of the Conservative Party leadership hustings in Birmingham, but it was called off. "Following this afternoon's medical advice, the Conservative Party has cancelled tomorrow's hustings," a spokesperson said. Mr Johnson had last week returned to the United Kingdom from his summer holiday in France, with Mr Raab the only other British candidate in the leadership race. The remaining Conservative MPs who have all pledged to support him in the Tory leadership campaign will have to return to the UK to deal with the new coronavirus outbreak that has wreaked havoc on global politics. The 48-hour coronavirus lockdown is in place and millions of people around the world are being
